Rainbow Brite is a lovable, creative little girl who uses the colors of the rainbow to color our world and our lives. Though she may be small, her good deeds and the magic she performs with her power belt more than make up for her size. Rainbow is carefree and fun-loving, but her work comes first. She might abandon a playful afternoon to save a sun-drenched wheat field from losing all its yellow or to save a rain-starved forest from losing all its green. She colors things by scattering the “Star Sprinkles” which become magical only when sifted through Rainbow’s very own fingers. Along with her horse, Starlite, and her helpers, The Color Kids, Rainbow Brite brings hope and happiness to all.

Buddy is the athlete of the group. He lives and breathes physical fitness and excels in everything athletic. He is always trying to organize teams, programs, and activities. Buddy is into health food, too, and lectures on its virtues until he's blue in the face. The others gladly put up with him, though, because he's so lovable. Buddy is a peace-loving boy who works hard to ensure calm and orderliness among The Color Kids. Since blue is a peaceful color, it's Buddy's own. And the blue sprites are the ones who help him color the skies and the oceans and all the other blue things that make up our world.

Canary is always sunny and cheerful—a typical “girl next door.” She is the optimist of the group and is consumed with the need to cheer everybody up and make them smile. Like many optimists, Canary is somewhat naive, which makes her easy game for Murky Dismal . . . she’s the one Color Kid who gets caught the most. Canary is Rainbow Brite’s favorite Color Kid because yellow, the color of cheerfulness, is Rainbow’s favorite color. Canary oversees the work of the yellow sprites and meets the yellow color needs of the world.

Indigo is a very beautiful little girl who wants to be a famous actress. She is always "on stage," so to speak, rehearsing and reciting lines from famous plays and making entrances wearing imaginative costumes. Though some may think she is overdramatic and somewhat of a dreamer, she likes to think of herself as an artist with high aspirations. Indigo's color represents drama and emotion. Her responsibility is for the indigo sprites and for the colors they create.

LaLa is very sweet, frilly, and feminine. She can often be found primping and preening until she looks, as she puts it, “just so.” She is a vivacious and energetic little girl who knows exactly what she wants, and she usually gets it. Though she can be a little pushy and overbearing at times, she means well. LaLa is quite flirtatious, especially with her favorite beau, Red Butler, on whom she has a giant crush. Orange, the color of energy and zest, is hers—that’s why she is responsible for all of the orange sprites and for the work that they do.

Patty is a cute, lively, mischievous little girl who enjoys playing practical jokes. She is very outgoing and is always right in the middle of things. But her combined sweetness and spice usually win your heart, and you forget about any upsets she instigates. Patty is very proud of being green and has a tendency to brag (a little too much) about how the earth just couldn't thrive without her. Patty loves life and nature and green growing things, so she is in charge of the green sprites and of making sure there is plenty o' green to go around.

Red is a smooth-talking, full-of-charm, fun-loving boy. He is always in search of new adventures and is ever ready to rescue anyone in distress. His dashing and daring personality makes him vulnerable, however, for it's usually when he's showing off that Murky Dismal is able to nab him and throw him into The Pits. Then he has to rely on others to do the rescuing. Though Red often bores The Kids with long and involved stories of his adventures and pursuits, his genuine love of being alive brings an uplifting spirit to all. Because his is the color of strength and passion, he is in charge of the color red, the red sprites, and of making sure there are enough red Star Sprinkles ready for delivery at a moment's notice.

The sprites are the friendly and furry little workers of Rainbow Land. They create the “Star Sprinkles” which form the colors that Rainbow Brite uses to brighten our world. Sprites come in all colors of the rainbow, and each color group reports to The Color Kid that matches its hue. They are always cheerful and playful. When not working at the mines or Prism Ponds, they can be found frolicking in the sunshine, making everyone happy. Sprites are terrified of Murky Dismal and Lurky, because if captured and thrown into The Pits, they will lose their colors and eventually disappear. But they count on their friends, Rainbow Brite and Starlite, to keep the worst from happening and to keep our lives ever colorful and bright.

Shy Violet is a studious little girl with the mind of a genius. She wears great big glasses and looks just as intelligent as she is. Most of the time Violet can be found reading or writing or working on theories about color. She is Rainbow Brite's problem-solver and can always be counted upon for quick answers to difficult questions. Though Violet is very shy, she never hesitates to speak up to offer advice. And when she speaks, everybody listens because she's always right! Hers is the color of wisdom and enlightenment, so when she's not busy offering advice, she's managing the work of the violet sprites, supplying violet colors to our world.

Starlite is Rainbow Brite's magical flying horse and very best friend. He loves Rainbow very much and always watches out for her safety and well-being. He gives her help and advice and takes her anyplace she wants to go, whether it's for fun or for the cause of color. Starlite's only fault is that he's vain about his striking appearance, and that vanity makes him vulnerable to the treachery of the two villains. When that happens, he has to count on Rainbow Brite and The Color Kids to save the day . . . and him.

Twink is an adorable bundle of sweetness and silliness. He is Rainbow Brite's favorite sprite and her high-energy sidekick. He is so full of energy that he literally bounces in the air, sometimes hitting his head on tree branches or low-flying birds. Twink is the only white sprite—a fate which befell him when Murky Dismal threw him into The Pits where he lost his color. Rainbow Brite rescued him before he turned clear, and nursed him back to health. There is a friendly rivalry between Twink and Starlite because each likes to think of himself as Rainbow's protector, but she has a way of joking them out of their jealousies. Twink is very fussy about color and likes to give orders to the other sprites, but fortunately, they don't take him too seriously.
